

Looking at the News with Col. Hugh Clark

It pays to be honest. As a boy, Primo Carnera was a cement mixer. He was conscientious and always put the proper amount of cement into the sand or gravel, and see where he is today!

The prayer of Euripides, about 500 B.C. will do to-day. It runs: "Omnipotent God, send light unto men that they may know whence their evils come and how they may avoid them."

We wish newspapers would keep quiet about wheat prices going up. The first thing we know the millers and bakers will hear about it.

A writer in a sartorial journal notes that plus fours are going out of vogue. They will soon be a minus quantity.

Signs of business revival multiply. The latest is a threatened strike of railwaymen.

Like J. P. Morgan, Mr. Otto H. Kahn did not pay income taxes in the past three years. He got out of it by selling stock to his daughter, registering the loss in his return, and then buying it back. Charles Mitchell worked the same game by selling to his wife. How do wealthy bachelors work it?

Like Mr. Morgan, too, Kahn paid British income taxes in those years, but there, as in Canada the law is not framed to permit evasion. It was known all along that such sales were being made by wealthy men in the United States to avoid income taxes. We have during the past three years seen frequent reference to the practice in the newspapers. Nothing was done to stop it.

There will always be scope for inventive genius until someone invents a rustless stovepipe.

It won't be long now until men open conversations this way: "Do you remember when we had the depression?"

Poor Fatty Arbuckle! One night of revelry and his world was shattered; yet he might have pieced it together again if death had not been so impatient.

The stabilization of currency suggested at London is only temporary, which means that it would be good during the currency of stabilization.

A reactionary is one who refuses to become hysterical and talk wildly merely because things are not as he thinks they should be.

Delving into old manuscripts a man has discovered that in 524 B.C. they had the same monetary troubles that we have now. That, of course, is nonsense. The banker of that time did not call up a customer by telephone to say his note was due or his account overdrawn.

A committee on illiteracy finds that there are four million people in the United States who can neither read nor write. It would be interesting to know what percentage of them is unemployed.

It looks as if the delegates of some countries represented at the conference were able to smuggle monkey wrenches into England.

What we want, said a clergyman at a recent political meeting, is not patience but righteous indignation. We should think that a good deal depends upon blood pressure and the state of the weather. On that hot day when he made the statement patience was indicated and not indignation.

Johnston of Lethbridge-Medicine Hat route. This service arrives from the south at 4:30 p.m. and arrives from the north at 8 p.m.

Weather has been hot and dry during the past week and all crops continue to deteriorate. A critical stage has been reached with the heading out of the wheat crop. Rain is needed badly between now and harvest time to fill the heads well. At the same time it is wonderful how the crops are holding up so well under the strain of heat and lack of moisture. Farmers are estimating an average of between 10 to 12 bushels per acre.

Mayor King is back from a visit to the Chicago World's Fair and has for the past week been telling everybody of his impressions, not only in Chicago, but in other points of interest en route. Mr. King made the journey in company with three Nanton men. The party spent five days at the exposition, visited the air races and many, many points of interest. The return journey was made through the Black Hills and Yellowstone Park.

Receiving acceptance of terms on Monday to play at the opening of the Lethbridge Exhibition on Tuesday, the band made hurried preparations, and appeared on short notice on that day. This makes the second appearance in two weeks for the Vulcan Citizens' band at exhibitions. Last week they participated in the Calgary Stampede parade. CHARLES CLARK, Proprietor

HORSE RACES ARE POPULAR

The sports program at Vulcan, Claresholm and Millarville was considerably improved through the introduction of horse racing. This was the candid opinion of the many who attended at the above places, all of which goes to show that there is a real local demand for the return of harness events as well as the encouragement of horse races. The racehorse has always been popular and as the Hanna Herald says: "The very animal itself commands the admiration of most people. But when, through strength of wind and fleetness of foot, the creature can step or run the track in split seconds, faster than its competitors, it becomes an idol of the race followers. And likewise, it enters the category of a money making machine."

WILL WHEAT GO UP?

The Searle Grain Company in this week's news letter, sums up the bullish and the bearish factors which will have their influence on wheat prices:

The following factors will tend towards higher prices:

Broomhall's World visible June 1, about 27 million bushels less than a year ago and 47 million less than the previous month; Sterling in terms of gold has advanced; unfavorable seed bed reported in parts of Australia; lack of rainfall in the Volga districts; severe grasshopper damage in South Alberta and Saskatchewan; drought in Western Canada and United States; unseasonable growing weather in the Balkans; in Italy, Spain, Denmark; lack of rainfall in Australia; damaged crops in France, Spain, Greece, Siberia, Hungary; regulation of wheat supplies in U.S.A.; estimated decrease of 22 million bushels in North Africa and Egypt; floods in Yantze Valley, China; reports on possible wheat reduction from the World Conference.

Against these are factors which will tend to lower prices, as follows: Small wheat import by India; increase of French acreage by 1,000,000 acres, and the forbidding of foreign wheat importations; stagnant European demand owing to uncertainty of Conference outcome in the matter of stabilization of exchange; reported reluctance to reduction program of Argentine and Australia; sharp weekly reduction in European purchases; reported success of Russian new crop with acreage up to plan; total world carryover in August estimated at 31 million bushel increase; timely rains in Poland, Canadian West and Australia; threat of Secretary Wallace U.S.A. to dump surplus wheat if reduction plan is not agreed to.

WHAT STARTED "BETTER TIMES?"

"Better times in Western Canada" is a heading frequently seen in Eastern Canadian newspapers these days. Certainly the statistics show that there has been an improvement in business in the west due to the encouragement offered by better wheat prices. Of course most of last year's crop has left the hands of the primary producer so exceedingly few have benefitted by the spectacular ascent in wheat prices. But there is a more hopeful attitude on the part of the people.

It should not be overlooked that the change has been caused principally by radical policies adopted by the new government of the United States. From 25c to 30c of the per bushel increase in the price of Canadian wheat, which is so cheering to all Canadians, is due to the bedevilled policy of inflation.

"Canada is an integral part of North America," Premier Bennett remarked a few months ago. What he probably meant was that this country is virtually dominated by the activities of the huge republic to the south of the boundary line. The truth of the statement is being well evidenced right now. The United States inflated her money and Canadian money is automatically inflated. The United States boosts wheat and commodity prices and our wheat and commodity prices follow suit.

The "standpatters" who for nearly four years have been preaching the doctrine of passivity, while the country has gone from bad to worse, and direful prospects appeared on the horizon, have been somewhat bewildered by the swift changes, but not dumbfounded. Many of them are now cheering for the things they condemned a few months ago.

THE MANAGED DOLLAR

President Roosevelt wants a dollar that will be worth as much in one generation as in another. This has never been true of any currency, in any country, at any time.

The 1926 American dollar would have purchased $1.40 worth of commodities in 1913; $1.17 in 1917; only 65 cents' worth in 1920; $1.03 in 1921; $1.40 in 1930, and today about $1.60.

How can business operate when its monetary standard of measurement is so variable? It is like trying to measure things with a rubber yardstick. Up to now, proposals to stabilize prices by managed currencies have been dreams of academic economists.

President Roosevelt now contemplates a method for stabilizing prices for good and all. He hopes to achieve this, according to his intimates, by using the extraordinary power given him by Congress to reduce the amount of gold in the dollar by as much as 50 per cent. How would this be done? Simply by varying the gold content of the dollar. If prices got too high, more gold would be added. If prices got too low, gold would be taken away.

In the past the dollar has been fixed in its content of gold, but variable in its purchasing power. By the new scheme the dollar would be fixed in its purchasing power, but variable in its gold content.

What should be taken as the "fair" price for the dollar? Obviously, some arbitrary figure must be selected. The Labor Department issues a table showing weekly price changes of some 750 commodities. From this table an average figure is computed, called the "commodity price index."

It is proposed to hitch the "managed dollar" to this commodity price index. Gold would be added or subtracted from the dollar as this index tended to go up or down. Thus the dollar would be manipulated.—Christian Science Monitor.

RURAL FARM FAMILY EXPENSES

Few facts are available for reference on the cost of living in rural farm homes in Canada, says the Economic Annalist, published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. However, in a survey of 157 farms in the Red River Valley of Manitoba in 1931 by the Dominion Economics Branch, data on family living were obtained from 129 of the records. Cash expenditures per family averaged $658.32, while farm furnished items amounted to $450.42, making a total of $1,088.74 for the average cost of living during the year.

Cash expenditures were 60.47 per cent. of the total, while farm furnished items averaged 39.53 per cent. Fully 49.12 per cent. of the total goods and services was spent on food, the average expense for food being $534.84. Over half this amount was supplied from the farm in butter, eggs, milk, garden produce and meats. Clothing accounted for 9.58 per cent. of the total or an average of $104.32 per family. The average farm family spent $45.34 for health purposes; $87.70 on education; $44.29 on amusement, $20.01 on churches and charity, and $24.02 as half the amount spent on operating the automobile charged to family living.

Doug and Mary are now separating. This shakes up just about the only old fashioned couple existing in Hollywood. There is no scandal however. Doug wants to leap and gallop round the world, and Mary likes a quiet life.

DIGESTION AND DIET

"Laugh and grow fat" is one of the good old sayings that still retains its popularity. "Growing fat" implies a cheerful disposition that is most desirable both for the possessor and his associates.

It is particularly necessary that mealtimes should be cheerful times. The balanced diets which are so heavily emphasized are only half the story. There must also be a happy mental condition. Food alone cannot provide good digestion, unless augmented with congenial companionship, and many digestive troubles are laid at the door of the physical, when they are more directly traceable to disturbed mental condition.

A physician in a recent magazine has laid down a few rules for the benefit of those terrorized by indigestion: (1) Have faith in your digestive system. Don't ruin its efficiency by being constantly afraid that it will get out of order. (2) Keep business affairs—particularly those which are likely to cause concern—on the other side of the dining room door. (3) Don't threaten children with punishment at meal time. Postpone the hour of reckoning until their food has had time to digest. (4) Save your best jokes and most amusing experiences for table talk. A hearty laugh is one of the best aids to digestion. (5) Dyspeptics are likely to avoid certain food combinations, such as milk and fruit, etc. There is no harmful result in these food combinations. The harm comes from the mental condition—the fear of food.

A balanced diet is of great importance, but the greatest factor in a good digestion is a calm, cheerful disposition and sensible habits of living. These are the magic ingredients that make life worth while.

THE OLD ORDER PASSES

"Sometimes in old buildings which have stood firm for centuries a little insect enters the woodwork and gradually eats away its strength. To all outward appearances for a long time it seems as solid as ever, but the mischief is gradually reducing the core of the timber into dust."

"Our economic system is crumbling, not from external pressure, but from inside. Time is pressing. Governments are too dilatory and easy going in dealing with this tremendous emergency. Whatever happens there must be fundamental changes. No one doubts this. They are in process now of being effected; everywhere the old order is passing away; nay, it has passed away already. What will take its place? Are statesmen thinking out that problem?"

"The existing industrial, financial, and economic order, with its blind and cruel greed, with its extravagance and its poverty its luxuries and its miseries, its waste and its chaos, with its tens of millions of honest workers reduced to eating the bread of charity while the riches of Providence are rotting in the fields because they are not permitted to reach the needy; with its slums where no humane man would house his cattle, with its nations organizing to starve and slaughter each other—this system has been tried and found wanting."—By a Past Cabinet Minister.

CALLING THE BOYS HOME

If a private employer sent forth emissaries who failed time after time in their appointed tasks, what would be his appointed tasks, what would be his natural reaction? He would fire them, with testimonials. They would pay the penalty of failure, which is exacted in every phase of competitive life. But not so with nations. Their hired representatives sally forth in state to conference after conference. After tremendous cost of operation, these conferences end in failure, the representatives return to their respective peoples, not in fear of losing jobs, or even a slap on the wrist. They come back without any responsibility as to the outcome of their missions. They have failed again, and isn't it too bad? And the people pay the bills in every bite they eat, every garment they wear. If these great leaders were common hired men they would not dare return so empty-handed. The humblest employee in the land has to show tangible result for his meagre wage. Why are the most highly paid employees exempt from this natural law?

If the penalty for failure to solve the world's ills were banishment to the frozen north, it is altogether likely that more would be accomplished. Presumably the greatest brains of the world are gathered at the London Conference. They know that certain remedies can be instituted that will release the wealth of production to the consumer who so sorely needs it. They know that varying monetary policies and tariff barriers stand in the way of real recovery. But obstinacy, coupled with ignorance as to the actual plight of the people's whom they represent, prevent any action. They do not suffer, therefore they can afford to parley and sidestep and delay.

The people of the world are patient, but it is time they demanded an accounting from their hired men. And it is time that they learned the futility of conferences.

The Calgary Herald suggests another Conference, say at Ottawa or Banff. God forbid. There have been too many conferences amidst pleasures and palaces. If one must be held, it should be held in a deserted shack in a widespread drought area. That would possibly open the eyes of negotiators to life as it has to be lived by too many of our people.

RANCHMEN'S WELL AT ALDERSYDE

Ranchmen's well at Aldersyde is drilling somewhere below the 5,800 foot level, the exact depth not being available Friday. An official of the company indicated that a definite announcement of the depth will probably be made shortly. There is considerable interest among shareholders in this wildcat and developments are being followed closely. The company has been offering royalties to finance the well to completion and substantial capital has been interested as was evidenced by an enquiry by a local investor who was considering putting $4000 into royalties very recently—Albertan.

PRESS COMMENT ON MCPHERSON CASE

Red Deer Advocate and Hanna Herald Tend to See Political Animus

No case has created such widespread interest in Alberta, as the legal action in which Hon. O. L. McPherson's first wife Cora McPherson applied for annulment of his divorce on the ground of collusion. Last week Justice Ford gave his decision in this matter, dismissing the action, and suggesting a maintenance allowance for Mrs. Cora McPherson.

From time to time there have been press comments on the matter from weekly exchanges, the majority being favorable to Mr. McPherson. Last week, before the announcement of Justice Ford's decision, two of the most prominent Alberta weeklies, the Red Deer Advocate and Hanna Herald, stepped into the arena of discussion with fairly pronounced views. The significance of this, lies not only in the balanced opinion which these papers maintain in dealing with current subjects, but also in the fact that, though independent in spirit, they have always been credited with Liberal leanings.

Red Deer Advocate
In a lengthy editorial covering the situation as seen by the Red Deer Advocate, that paper concludes with the following paragraph:

"The general impression among Edmonton radicals, the Advocate understands, is that the heavy court expenses, two leading Liberal K.C.s being engaged on the collusion trial, are proofed by a Liberal junta there, led by Howson and White, and that the Edmonton Bureau pages of court reports were part of the same attack on Mr. McPherson and the Government. The former Mrs. McPherson's statement of claim in court stated that she had no money. If that be true, and that the money for the second trial was put up by a Liberal junta in Edmonton, and it certainly looks much like it, it is a disgraceful piece of party tactics, and the Advocate hopes that the Liberal provincial party will be soundly whipped therefor. They now want to blather the whole miserable court evidence on their behalf before the Little Bow electors through the former Mrs. McPherson and through Mr. Howson. Mr. McPherson never charged the divorce proceedings were due to political intrigue, as Howson said; Mr. McPherson said that the court papers and evidence in his personal cases were used in Camrose by-election and in the province as material against the Government and its members and candidates instead of leaving him to fight out any private transgressions before his Little Bow constituents."

Hanna Herald
The Hanna Herald also writing editorially, says in part:

"The activity of the Liberal party in Alberta has taken its evidence that politics has had considerable to do with the case. Hon. Mr. McPherson was probably the ablest minister, outside the premier, in the provincial cabinet. The political game is an unscrupulous one and the case provided a shining target for political enemies. In our opinion politics were at the bottom of the entire affair, but that does not completely exonerate the minister."

"Of course there are scores of other women who have been worse treated and with less fault of their own than Mrs. Cora McPherson. Only too many faithful and indulgent wives have been ruthlessly cast aside by cruel and callous husbands and no one has lifted a finger to aid them. If the Liberal party of Alberta is organizing itself into an institution that will 'go abroad redressing human wrongs' under the leadership of a pure Sir Galahad, it will have plenty of opportunity for action. But the Liberal party has no idea of picking up the case of some inconspicuous woman whose husband has forsaken her and cast her out! That would not be good politics. But when the Liberal party sees an opportunity to knife a prominent man in the government by means of his erstwhile wife or any body else, that is a different story."

"Hon. Mr. McPherson, we believe, has been made the object of callous political warfare. Nonetheless we feel that his proper course is to resign his portfolio and his seat. He may feel such a course to be unfair and unjust but certainly the electors of the province will expect it of him. In fact, in fairness to his party, it is the only course he can pursue. Possibly, if he chose to do so, he might contest his riding again. That would be a matter for him to decide."

More than 2000 sport fans attended the provincial meet of the Alberta Amateur Track and Field Association held at Drumheller on July 1. The First Aid team attended 24 cases of mishaps during the day.

Why Are the Blue Noses Dominating Canadian Affairs

The Halifax Herald has made a survey of the achievements of Maritime Province men in other parts of Canada. The result reads like the story of Scotsmen in London. Beginning with Premier Bennett, who, of course, is a New Brunswicker, the list of Maritimers who are lorded it over the rest of us all but makes one think that the greatest misfortune that can befall a man in Canada is not to be born in either New Brunswick or Nova Scotia. Blue noses dominate parliament. Not satisfied with the premiership the post of finance minister is in the hands of a Nova Scotian, with the job of financial critic of the opposition to another Nova Scotian, as though for good measure. Then, of course, there is Mr. C. H. Cahan, another Nova Scotian, and one of the most eminent of House of Commons leaders.

Maritimers run our railways. When Frank Carvell, who was a New Brunswicker, quit the chairmanship of the Railway commission he was succeeded by Judge McKeown, another Brunswicker, and now the job is held by still another Maritimer, Mr. C. P. Fullerton. At that, they are telling that Mr. Fullerton may become chairman of the new Canadian board of trustees, with Justice Dysart, another Maritimer, to become head of the railway commission.—Ottawa Journal

COURT UPHOLDS
O. L. MCPHERSON

Dismisses Action for Annulment of Divorce; Suggests Provision for Plaintiff

The absolute decree of divorce granted Hon. O. L. McPherson, Alberta public works minister, was upheld Wednesday in a decision given by Mr. Justice Frank Ford. The decision dismissed the action of Cora Lillian McPherson to upset the divorce decree.

The question of costs was reserved until the judge is informed whether or not an application is to be made for an allowance for the plaintiff.

In a lengthy judgment Mr. Justice Ford pointed to the "room for doubt as to where the real truth of the matter lies," and said he thought the interests of justice would be better served by some proper provision for the plaintiff's support and right of access to her children.

If, the learned judge said, it is intended to apply to him, under the Domestic Relations Act for an allowance to the plaintiff, he was prepared to give as early an appointment as possible for the hearing as may be desired.

The judgment, in part, reads as follows:

"This action is of a kind which in the legal history of England and Canada fortunately is rare. In some respects it is unique and without exact precedent. It is remarkable that in 76 years during which the English courts have had jurisdiction absolutely to dissolve marriages there is, as far as I have been able to find, only one reported case in England, where, after decree absolute for divorce granted by an English court an attempt has been made to have it set aside on the ground of fraud."

Hon. Hugh Guthrie addressed the Conservative Club in Calgary on July 12.

Vancouver Province: Twenty unemployed who had no money ate meals in city restaurants and did not pay for them. They have been sentenced to pay fines of $25 each. As they have no money to pay the fines the city as a penalty will supply them with 90 free meals and free lodgings at Oakalla. Now one wonders who has been fined, the convicted men or the city?

FATAL ACCIDENT
SUNSHINE TRAIL

Lethbridge Boy Killed North of Vulcan; Others Severely Shaken; Tire Blowout

Clarence Miller, a Lethbridge lad of 13, was the victim of a fatal auto accident on the Sunshine highway north of Vulcan, Saturday afternoon.

One car south-bound, carrying F. J. Halpin and Mrs. Halpin, F. J. Henderson and Barney Burns, all of Bow Island, returning home from the Calgary Stampede, collided with a car from Lethbridge, in which the occupants were Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, and their three children, Clarence and his sisters, Irene and Viola, aged 11 and 9 years, and Misses Jessie Martin and Mary Rodiniak who were going to Drumheller.

All the men escaped with a severe shaking-up, but the other passengers in both cars received more serious hurts, Irene Miller being unconscious for 15 hours.

When the cars were about to pass a tire blow-out caused the south-bound car to run into the path of the north-going, with the result that the front of one hooked into the rear of the other. This turned the north-going car over on its side, and the unfortunate lad, who was seated next to the open car window, was caught when partly thrown through the window. His skull was crushed between the car frame and the road. Death was instantaneous.

CAN DO NO WRONG

Though Siamese scrapped the divine rights of their smart little King Prajadhipok last year he managed to keep his throne as a constitutional monarch. In face of trouble with the Siamese army, the King announces that he is leaving for America for another trip to undergo another operation for cataract of the eye by Dr. Wheeler of Manhattan. It appears that when Wheeler operated on the King of Siam two years ago, he sat down to bill His Majesty, he could not decide what fee to ask. An oriental potentate must be charged neither too little or too much, so he took a sporting change and sent the bill in bland and wrote thereon "The King can do no wrong." The King was puzzled and finally ordered his treasurer to remit Dr. Wheeler a cheque for $250,000.
